This will merely be a short note to acknowledge receipt of your very interesting and stimulating letter of 6 February, and as a first or interim step, to thank you very much for the time and thought which went into its composition. I hope to see you at the Air University on 10 March and to discuss the letter with you at that time.

By the latter statement you will gather that I also received the carbon copy of your letter to Col. Hebert and thank you also for sending it.

My present plan is to leave Washington on 2 March for San Antonio, staying at Brooks Air Force Base for conferences closing on 7 March. Then I go to Montgomery for my talk which is scheduled to be given at the Electronics Division of the Air Command and Staff School, of the Air University. I am reserving time after 1400 on 10 March to talk with you and Col. Hebert and others on the matter of mutual interest, returning to Washington on 11 March.

I note in your letter to Col. Hebert that you plan to be in Washington about 1 March, which is the day before I plan to be leaving there. However, it would be a good idea to give me a phone call either at the office or at home if you do reach Washington before I leave.

Looking forward to seeing you soon, I am,

Sincerely,

WILLIAM F. FRIEDMAN

P. S. Delay in getting out a more prompt acknowledgement of receipt was occasioned by a siege of influenza, from which I am rapidly recovering.
